Addos,

Keith

Have a Nice Vacation, I hope to see you next year

Spank

KEITH:

See you this summer, and next year if Sroes doesn't can one of our asses. We did ask for some of it, but I think we'll be back. Next year I want to see one real good fight with Dennis, another good puke, another 14 hot dogs and all that shit you're famous for.

Good luck this summer (Nicole), I know I'll be having fun!

John

Keith,
have a good time in 10th grade
see ya later,
Jim

Keith,

I'm glad you decided to study for the final exam, but you should have thought of that all the other times we had tests (just joking). Have a great summer and see you next year.

L'amour est une source naive, partie de son lit de cresson de fleurs, de graviers, qui, riviere, fleuve, change despect a chaque flot; puis se jette dans un ocean incommensurable, ou les esprits incomplets voient de la monotouie, ou les grandes ames s'abiment en de perpetuelles contemplations.

We know the key to unity of all people

That lives in all of the hearts of people
That believes in unity
We'll make the dream becomes a reality
I know we will
Because our hearts tell us so.

Just think, once we were strangers,

It's measured instead,
In smiles, laughter, and tears.

Remember the River Walk and remember the guys who turned red when we batted our eyes.
Remember the super market and the stores,
Remember the times that we were.
Remember the night you said no,
And also the time he didn't want

Remember the looking tower and remember who's got real power.
Remember the time your finger
got slammed in the door.
Remember the time you told him
you didn't want any more.

There are hungry people to feed, naked

from your life those who offer
you depression, despair, and disrespect.

Tomorrow is a dream that leads us onward
Tomorrow is a path we've yet to choose,
It's a chance we've yet to make,
It's all the talents we've yet to use.
Tomorrow is a dream that leads us onward
Always just a step ahead of us . . .
It's the joy we've yet to know,
The love we've to show
For it's the person we have yet to be.

This has been an interesting year. I'm glad I got to know you this year. Isn't this an awful picture? Now that I've written on it you can't see it. Have a good summer and I'll see you again next year.

Best Wishes to the Class of 1982;

From "Thoughts on the Business of Life"

I resolve

To strive to contribute something to the world, and the people in it.

To spend and be spent in worthy service.

To adhere, the best I can, to the Golden Rule.

To philosophize more, recalling always, when things go awry, "This, too, will pass."

To try always to see viewpoints other than my own.

To make humility and simplicity so much a part of myself that I shall become as a child, as one of those of whom the Master declared, "For of such is the kingdom of heaven."
